

DAVID BRADFUTE BOARDER IN HOUSE WHERE VICTOR HUGO WAS BORN

David C. Bradfute, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Bradfute, is one of the fortunate American soldiers who will get an opportunity to study in a French University, since he has been placed in the American School Detachment, and sent to the University of Besancon, where he is now located. He writes interestingly in the following letter:

"I think I wrote you that I had orders to go to Bar-sur-Aube the next morning to go to a university. Well I did manage to get up in time by the simple expedient of not allowing myself to go sound asleep. I got packed up and down to the office of the C. S. O. (chief signal officer) by seven o'clock as per schedule, only to find that the chauffeur who was to take me to Bar-sur-Aube had to be awakened and then he wanted some breakfast so it was eight o'clock when we got started.

"It was a 98 kilometer drive to Bar-sur-Aube so we did not get there until 11:10. I went in to get my orders immediately and found that with four other 319th fellows I was ordered to the University of Besancon, a few miles from the Swiss border. Our train was to leave at 12:10 so it required quick work. There were several papers to sign, clothing receipts, etc., clothing to get out of my barracks bag, dinner to eat and say good bye to the fellows, since it is almost a certainty that the 319th will see our faces no more—unless we get canned.

"The old 319th showed up pretty well as usual. Out of the eight or nine thousand First Army Troops fifty-one men were sent to the various universities and of this number, the 319th, P. S. B. had ten. The Major to Oxford, Lieut. Roehrig and two men to Nancy, one man to Sorbonne and five of us here. Not so bad—what? Of the eight men who went to English University from the First Army Headquarters all were officers except one and he a Master Engineer, which is a better job than a Lieutenant.

"We left Bar-sur-Aube at 12:10 and arrived at Chaumont, where General Headquarters, A. E. F., is located about three o'clock. Our train was to leave at 6:40 but did not actually go until 9:00 so we had plenty of opportunity to see Chaumont and it is worth seeing. We arrived at Dijon about 5 A. M., and spent the rest of the night at the Red Cross Bunk House at the station there. Our train for Besancon left at 2:15 p. m. so we had an opportunity to see a little of Dijon also. It is quite an American railroad center, a good sized city and the seat of Dijon University. The streets are wide and the buildings fine. We got to Besancon about 4:00 p. m. and have put up since at the Y. M. C. A. Hotel, but this afternoon we found a room each so now I guess we are settled.

"We registered yesterday and the address of welcome and the first classes were held today. All classes are to be in French, but it is surprising the amount of French one knows when he knows he simply has to understand it." Here he gives a copy of his study schedule which is all in French.

"I've given everything as it is in the bulletin in French, but you don't need know any French to translate it. Most of this is the special course reserved for all Americans. The idea is, I suppose, to give one an understanding of France and its people rather than practically cash value knowledge, but that is a good thing. When one finishes this course he ought to know a little about this country. In connection with the course in applied chemistry, it is planned to take a trip through the

WOULD ELECT NEW MINORITY LEADER FOR NEW CONGRESS

William A. Ayers.

Representative William A. Ayers, only Democrat elected to the Sixty-sixth congress from Kansas, has joined those who are dissatisfied with the selection of Champ Clark for the minority leadership in the house. He wants a representative steering committee to elect a leader and he says if present conditions continue in the party "there won't be much incentive for a person to remain a Democrat."

various manufacturing plants in Switzerland and around Marseilles. Each student has to pay his own expenses though.

"I have a very nice room with gas, light and heat. There are four of us in the same rooming house, although I would have liked it much better if I could have gotten with a private family. It gives one much better chance to get acquainted with the people. The government pays for our rooms directly but we receive the two dollars per day for board ourselves and can eat where we please. The restaurants are good. Dinner and supper costs about four francs each without wine and breakfast about two, but by boarding by the week I think we can get it cheaper than that. But this French restaurant cooking certainly goes good after slum and gold fish. Dinner is always served in courses, usually four or five.

"Besancon is a very fine town in the foothills of the Vosges, a city of about 40,000 inhabitants and quite an educational center, there being several schools corresponding to high schools as well as the university. The university is considerably disorganized now as several of the faculty as well as most of the students are still with the colors.

"The city was founded by the Gauls about 200 B. C. and was used by them as a walled city under the name of Vesunio, I think. It was the chief city of the Sequani. It was later captured by Caesar and made into a Roman camp. The columns of the Theater, the Aqueduct and the Roman Arch, still exist. This is one of the centers of the watch making industry in France. The university has a school in horology. In the Cathedral there is an astronomical clock which shows the time, day, month, year, position of the planets, etc.

"This is also the birthplace of Victor Hugo, as one is constantly reminded by the names and statues everywhere. We are now eating at the Cafe Victor Hugo which occupies the ground floor of the house in which he was born.

"I guess I am going to have to buy a new fountain pen. They are very expensive over here, even a fair one costing around six dollars, but it can't be helped.

"Our time, except in classes is absolutely our own, and there seems to be no check on who attends the classes. However I am not going to start cutting classes. It seems quite strange to be able to come and go at any hour, day or night. Passes to go anywhere in the vicinity can be obtained at any time when there are no classes.

"There are about 165 Americans attending the University here of which about a third are officers. Aside from a detachment of M. P.s we are the only Americans stationed here although there are Americans coming through all the time for a short time on leave. But their numbers are not very great.

"Last night I took dinner at the home of one of the judges of the Court of Commerce and a member of the City Council. They seem to be very nice people and very friendly. He showed me through the city hall, the court rooms and the mayor's office, to which he had access, with the paintings of all the former mayors and famous men of Besancon. Besides his wife there are three children in the family, a son of seventeen and two daughters twenty and twenty-two. The girls are studying English and are going to write Helen, whose address I gave them, in English, and want her to correct the letter and send it back with another.

"The more I see of this town the better I like it. It looks as if June might not be so very far off after all."

His address is "American School Detachment, University of Besancon, Besancon, Doubs, France, A. E. F."

STRIKE SITUATION REMAINS TENSE

Boston, April 18.—The situation in the telephone strike throughout New England was tense today, following serious clashes between crowds of strike sympathizers and strike breakers in which several students of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology took part.

Striking operators in most instances did everything possible to prevent their sympathizers from attacking the strike breakers. The crowd was composed chiefly of boys and men.

With the strike in its fourth day, there was no indication of a break in the ranks of the strikers, who still maintain that they will not negotiate through the channels which Postmaster General Burleson declares they must use before the wage increase question will be considered.

OHIO LEGISLATURE OFF ON VACATION

Columbus, April 18.—After being in session for three months and a half, Ohio legislators have gone home today for a 17 day recess.

They will return on May 5 and continue their work for about two weeks, and then quit until after the November elections.

Between now and May 3 the finance committees of house and senate will be working on the appropriation bills, which will carry a total of nearly $49,000,000 to run the state government for the next two years.

The house last night passed the Ake bill prohibiting the use of German language in schools below the eighth grade, public, private or parochial schools.

The house took away from its public utilities committee and placed on its calendar the Wise bill which seeks to make mandatory the interchange of service between local and long distance telephone companies. It will come up for passage after the recess.

The Berry bill, for a reclassification of ditch laws, passed both branches, and is now ready for the governor.

The house passed the Cowan joint resolution requesting Secretary Baker to turn over to Ohio all war trophies captured by Ohio troops "over there."

The senate will pass it after recess.

Ohio's three movie censors were given salary increases from $1,500 to $2,000 a year.

One of the latest measures introduced was a joint resolution by Rep. McFarland, Morrow county, calling for a vote on a proposed constitutional amendment to let counties decide for themselves whether they want the direct primary or the old party convention plan. It got no where.

The house passed the Fouts resolution condemning Gov. Cox for his alleged attacks on the legislature in connection with the Comings German language bill.

Just before adjournment the house passed the Burns bill which seeks to abolish the state oil inspection department. It will come up in the senate after recess.

The closing hours of the session were marked by much hilarity.

San Francisco, April 18.—The estate of the late Mrs. Phoebe Apperson Hearst today was estimated at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000, following the filing of the will for probate.

Value of vast realty holdings caused the variance in estimates. William Randolph Hearst inherits the greater part of the estate, the will naming him residuary legatee.

PROCLAMATION IS ISSUED BY GOVERNOR

Columbus, Ohio, April 18.—Governor James M. Cox has issued the following proclamation requesting state-wide observance of Monday, April 21, as the opening of the victory liberty loan campaign.

"In gratitude and thankfulness for the heroic conduct of our fighting forces, the civil population of the state approaches another opportunity to render service.

"The United States Government has designated Monday, the 21st day of April, 1919, as the day upon which the victory or thanksgiving loan campaign shall begin.

"As Governor of the state of Ohio, I therefore respectfully call upon the citizenship of our state to make this Easter season one of rejoicing and thanksgiving, and to recognize this material way in which to show appreciation of and affection for those who went to the front by supporting wholeheartedly and promptly the call of our Government in this last loan of a war brought to a successful close.

"Let me rely upon the patriotic spirit of employers as to permit fullest co-operation with such committees; and let me urge that all so far as possible, adjust their affairs to this most important matter.

It is especially requested that this day be observed by appropriate and instructive patriotic programs in all schools and public places.

FIFTY PERSONS ARE INITIATED INTO THE D. OF A. LODGE

At a big union meeting attended by two hundred and fifty people, Pride of Xenia Council, No. 140, Daughters of America, initiated a class of fifty candidates Thursday evening.

The council has over fifty applications for membership, but owing to illness and other causes, only fifty of those expected were able to be present to take the degree work Thursday night.

Visitors were present from eleven councils, including Violet and Home City councils of Springfield; Victory and Pride of Miami council, Dayton; Bellbrook and Paintersville, and Obedience council, this city. Several state officers were present and after the degree work, they all made talks bearing upon the progress of the work in the order, and other matters of interest pertaining to the organization.

The officers were Mrs. Pauline Joest, of Cincinnati, state councillor; Mrs. Lillian Carpenter, of Springfield, past state councillor; Albert Bosson, of Cincinnati, past national councillor, and Mrs. A. E. Faulkner, of this city, state vice councillor.

The work of the degree staff was particularly fine, and the team made a splendid appearance in the new uniforms which consist of white, with lining, and white overseas cap. The captain, Mrs. Gertrude Mutterspaugh, was dressed entirely in white. She directed the team in a very efficient manner, and her work was particularly commended.

Mrs. Joest and Mrs. Faulkner were each presented a cut glass vase, in appreciation of their labors in the interest of the Daughters.

Supper was served following the evening's program.

YOUNG COUPLE IS MARRIED AT DAYTON

At high noon, Wednesday, at the Fourth Reformed church, Dayton, occurred the marriage of Miss Grace Collier, daughter of Charles E. Collier, of New Holland, Ohio, to the Rev. A. C. Peeler, of Salisbury, N. C., who was graduated April 10, from Central Theological Seminary, in Dayton.

The ceremony, which was attended by relatives and friends of the couple, was performed by the Rev. A. R. Lynn, of Xenia.

The bride was charming in an effective costume of satin combined with white georgette. She wore a veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and bride roses. Her attendant, Miss Maude Ritter, was gowned in pink crepe de chine with a picture hat faced with the same shade. Her flowers were a corsage of pink sweet peas. The Rev. George Snyder, a classmate of the bridegroom, was best man. Miss Olive House presided at the organ.

A reception and dinner at 69 Fulton street, where the bride has been making her home while in Dayton, followed the ceremony at the church. The Rev. Peeler and his bride left shortly afterwards for a month's visit at the home of the former in Salisbury, N. C., from where they will go to Staunton, Va., to establish their home.

SCHOOLS WILL BE ERECTED AT THE SAME TIME

Not only the purchase of sites for the proposed white and colored high schools, which will have to be built some time in the future, will be coincidental, but the erection of the buildings will also be made at the same time, is the statement of the authorities in the matter.

The board wishes to clearly convey the idea that both schools will have to be taken care of at some future date and having secured the sites at the acceptable time, that both buildings will be erected at the same time, when building conditions are more favorable than now. The purchase of the two new sites is being made as a preparatory measure in order to have them when the time comes. The necessity for a new school for both white and colored pupils, is imperative, it is pointed out, and it will be impossible to neglect one for the other. For this reason it is impressed that both schools will be built at the same time when conditions permit.

While the bond issue is to be for $25,000, no price has been set on the sites proposed, and only so much as necessary of this amount will be used for the purpose.

ENGLAND ENJOYS ITS FIRST REAL HOLIDAY IN OVER FOUR YEARS

London, April 18.—England was enjoying its first real holiday in more than four years today—Good Friday.

Hundreds of thousands left London for seaside and country, resulting in a great congestion of transportation. Other hundreds of thousands of people spent the day in the parks or on the river.

The temporary raising of the ban on civilian flying led many to take "joy flights," many of the aircrews of the commercial airplane concerns being fairly overwhelmed by persons anxious to enjoy the novelty.

RENO SPORTS EXPECT TO GET THE BIG FIGHT

Reno, Nevada, April 18.—Half of Reno expects Tex Richard to step up hat in hand and politely ask Reno to stage the Willard-Dempsey fight.

The other half of Reno either does not want the fight or is dubious about the benefits Reno would receive from it.

No one here is making it his business to see to it that Richard considers Reno. The men who naturally would be interested in bringing the fight here, however, take it for granted Reno will stage the fight.

Manager Saddler of the Golden hotel said he had no doubt the fight would come here. He said reservations for the fight already had been made at the hotel.

The editor of one of the papers here expressed the opinion of a considerable portion of Reno's population when he said the fight would result in a lot of "left handed" advertising for Reno.

"It would bring a lot of money here and take a lot away," he said. "Reno men are still paying debts resulting from the racing season here."

Harry E. Stewart, who put the 25-round boxing bill through the legislature over the veto of Governor Boyle, estimated that the Johnson-Jeffries fight netted Reno $100,000.

The attendance from out of Nevada was about 20,000, he said. Reno spent about $11,000 on an arena. He said that fight was not followed by any period of thugery, and left no bad taste in Reno.

"No one is taking up with Richard the matter of staging the fight here," said Stewart. "We believe we will get the fight, however."

Stewart, who was chairman of the Reno delegation in the Nevada assembly just ended, told today the inside story of the passage of the 25-round boxing exhibition bill over the veto of Governor Boyle.

Stewart admitted that the bill was lucky and that he fathered it as a result of a chance conversation. It makes Nevada the only state in the union where a fight at that length may be staged, but it draws the color line. Under the new law the fighters may use bare fists if desired.

Stewart, who is now a Republican candidate for mayor of Reno, has appeared in ring exhibitions himself. One of his cronies of ring days remarked:

"Harry, why don't you fix it at Carson so we can have real fights in Nevada?" Ten rounds were all that were allowed under the old law.

Two days later Stewart had introduced his 25-round "boxing exhibition" amendment.

ITALIANS AND JAPS PRESENT BARRIERS TO PEACE TREATY

Paris, April 18.—With every preparation being made for reception of the German peace delegates April 25, the Italians and Japanese continued today to present possible barriers to complete agreement on the terms of the treaty. No official information could be obtained regarding the present status of the claims of those two countries, but it was generally understood the Italians were still holding out for ratification of their entire expansionist program, while the Japanese were preparing to reintroduce their racial equality amendment to the league of nations covenant at the plenary session next week. The Italians were said to be standing pat on their threat to withdraw from the conference unless their claims were granted. The Japanese, while still apparently without specific instructions from Tokyo, were reported to be ready to announce their refusal to accept the covenant if their amendments were to be again turned down.

Guests in the Hotel Vatel and Des Reservoirs, at Versailles, were being ousted today to make room for the German delegates. It was believed that quarters in other hotels might also be requisitioned.

According to the latest report, the enemy representatives will be met only by the "big four"—President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George, Premier Clemenceau and Premier Orlando—who will formally present the treaty, after which the German delegation will return with it to Weimar, where it will be discussed by the German government and possibly the National Assembly.

The "guarantees" understood to have been given France still remain a mystery. They are surrounded by the greatest secrecy and it is believed the will be included in the treaty or a separate agreement.

PRESIDENT CABLES THANKS TO HITCHCOCK

Washington, April 18.—President Wilson has cabled Senator Hitchcock of the foreign relations committee, thanking him for his message praising the amended league of nations covenant.

A PAIR OF N. W.'S THAT EXCELS IN TEAM WORK

Nerv-Worth and Nerv-Worth Laxative Tablets Pull Together for Strong Nerves and Good Health.

These two have marked value at this time of the year when the system is winter-weakened; and in this particular springtime when debility engendered by winter, there is an extra burden of nerve disorder engendered by influenza, with a serious lowering of nerve force.

A bottle of Nerv-Worth and a 25-cent box of Nerv-Worth Laxative Tablets form a combination without equal in restoring nerve force by making over the weakened nerves and by building up the entire system. The tablets are especially valuable in cleansing the bowels for those whose habits of constipation do not quickly yield to the laxative properties of Nerv-Worth the liquid. ## The Right Laxative For The Little Ones---

The natural condition of a child is to be happy and carefree. When the girl mopes and is indifferent to school and study, or the boy is sullen and refuses to go out and play, the child needs a laxative to empty the bowels and stir up the liver.

But something should be given that will produce the result in as simple and natural a way as possible. Harsh cathartics and physics are neither necessary nor desirable.

Many mothers have found that the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin sold by druggists under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin produces a free movement of the bowels without griping. A very little is required, and it is pleasant to take. A few hours after its use the child will be its happy self again.

It is an excellent remedy for the mother herself, and for the other members of the family, in obstinate or occasional constipation, for the relief of headaches, as an aid in colds and fevers, minor skin eruptions and all disorders where the basis of the trouble is constipation.

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

Child's Flesh Raw From Eczema

Resinol Stopped Itching and Healed the Sick Skin

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 15:—"My baby suffered terribly for three months from eczema. It appeared on his face, head and hands, and spread until his head was a mass of sores and he looked as if he had been scalded. The itching was so intense I had to tie his hands. He cried all the time and could not sleep. I tried many remedies, but nothing did him any good. I heard of Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, and the fourth day after I began their use the itching stopped. Now one would not know he had ever had any skin trouble. Two jars of the Ointment cured him." (Signed) Mrs. Bessie Davis, 1012 South 13th St.

Mr. William Thomas has just had an official letter from Captain B. H. Camden, commander of the United States Coast Guard, at the naval base of Bunkin Island, Mass., relative to the accidental drowning of his son Wilbur H. Thomas. At noon on April the 11th, as the boys were on recreation period, he and John Klemzushi asked permission of the officer at the dock if they might go out in a small boat. The request was granted—but for some unknown reason, when they went down to the beach, they took an old boat, which was in bad repair. Instead, the wind was very strong, blowing at the rate of 40 miles. When about a mile from dock, they were seen to be floundering in the water. Wilbur was out trying to swim toward the shore. Two motor boats put out immediately, endeavoring to reach them, but were somewhat hindered by the strong breeze—but was able to rescue Klemzushi, and young Thomas was seen to sink for the third time. They are still making every effort to recover the body. The Captain paid a beautiful tribute to the character and ability of Wilbur. He was a member of the Coast Guard at the Camp, with eleven men under his command. He said he was very conscientious and painstaking in performing every duty imposed upon him; and had the confidence of his superior officers. He had been on the water ever since six weeks after his enlistment. The Captain added that he would be greatly missed by the officers and his comrades, to whom he was attached. Warm expressions of sympathy was expressed to Mr. Thomas and his family. Wilbur has a host of friends in Jamestown who are mourning their loss. He was a friend to every one, and every one was his friend. He possessed a bright, jolly, cheerful disposition, always optimistic. His family have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE—THE ROCKEFELLOW WAY TO GET IT.

After a year's trial the industrial relationship system introduced in 1918 by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, whereby the workers are given a voice in determining wages, hours and other conditions, is a proved success. This was the opinion expressed at the second annual joint conference and dinner of the elected representatives of the employees of the New Jersey refineries and the directors of the company, held Saturday night at the Robert Treat Hotel, in Newark.

Walter C. Teagle, president of the company, opened his speech with a comment upon the increase in number of employees during the year from 7866 to 10,246, continuing as follows:

"This, in my opinion, is the best answer to those who prophesied a commercial collapse and widespread unemployment after the war. Those who have been in military service are returning rapidly in large numbers to their former occupations with virtually no disturbance to those employed as their substitutes in the war period.

"It is perhaps a record in the industrial history of this country that the various wage increases and adjustments made during the last year have all been settled in joint conferences between the employees and the management and in conformity with the announced policy of the company of paying at least the scale of wages prevailing in the localities in which its plants are situated. There has been, I am glad to say, no reservation on either side, and in all discussions a common ground of advantage has invariably been found. The true note is mutual advantage and common interest. We are now facing another year, confident that only time, experience and co-operation are necessary to demonstrate to American industry the success of industrial representation."

A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of directors, who presided, said: "I desire to express our belief that the plan of industrial representation has been of inestimable value, in that it has given the workers a real voice in the settlement of these puzzling problems so far as they have arisen in our business. I wish to express our deep appreciation of the faithful, unselfish and helpful service that has been rendered by the employee representatives, and also of the loyal manner in which the employees as a body have accepted and lived up to the decisions arrived at in our own joint conferences."

THE KOREAN QUESTION.

Korea has a distinct nationality and civilization of her own; in fact, Japan received her first impulse of civilization from Korea. Korea became an empire in 1895, and in the treaty between the United States and Korea the United States in effect definitely promised aid in case Korea's sovereignty was in any way jeopardized by a third power. But Japan, through her publicity propaganda, created an impression before the American public that Korea was incapable of independence. That, by the way, is the same excuse offered by George the Third in the case of the American colonies, by Prince Metternich of Austria in suppressing Italian nationality and by the central powers in subjecting the peoples whom the Allies set free by the present war.

Worn out as it is, yet Japan clings to this excuse as a pretext in suppressing Korean nationality by sheer force.

Japan established a protectorate in Korea right after the Japanese-Russian war, despite her solemn pledge to the Korean people and to the world to the contrary at the beginning of the conflict.

By trickery and brute force Korea was formally annexed in 1910 to the Japanese Empire. The present policy of the Japanese Government in Korea is by far more tyrannical than that exercised by Germany in Alsace-Lorraine. Germany herself never opposed the higher education among the Alsace-Lorraine people as Japan has been and is doing in Korea.

The Japanese have the complete monopoly in commercial and industrial lines in Korea. The Korean cannot compete with the Japanese merchant because of preference in treatment accorded the latter by the Japanese Government. Right now the Korean patriots are fighting the Japanese with clubs and scythes as against machine guns, but they are determined to fight to the last man, and they look up to liberty-loving America to help them regain the independence of which they have been robbed by Japan.

VERSAILLES REVISITED— OR 1871 AVENGED.

The Germans are to tread their Via Dolorosa to Versailles on a black Friday, the 25th of April. Versailles will be to them haunted ground. They will see the burly figure of Bismarck and the complaisant face of the mild-mannered monarch whom in a mad frenzy of race arrogance they made "German emperor." If they look closely, they will perceive the shadows of other mad monarchs—Bourbons who fatally wounded the institution of monarchy, though it has been a long time dying.

It is rather a pity that the kaiser cannot be there; for there is probably no other city in Europe so surrounded by ill omens to an imperialist autocracy, to a monarch who fancies that he derives his right of government from something other than the consent of the governed. A little to the north rises the church in St. Germain where James the Second of England was buried. Over in the plain toward Paris lies Malmaison, where the defeated and discredited Emperor Napoleon paid a last flying visit to the home of Josephine. Here in the Palais, the park and the gay Trianons—where the penitential congress is to be held—the proud Bourbons committed constructive hari-kari. They opened the breach in the wall of European monarchy as against democracy, and it has never been closed. Curiously enough, the most formidable effort to close it was that of raising the king of Prussia to the throne of imperial Germany; and that occurred in this same Versailles. Now this same Versailles is to hear the funeral service read over its final failure.

The air will be alive with rumor from now until the dramatic 25th as to the intentions of the Germans. But it would seem as if the period of negotiations must be pretty well passed in which Teuton threats of committing suicide, Oriental fashion, on the doorsteps of their enemies might conceivably frighten the Allies into "softer terms." When the Allies finally agree, the Germans may as well realize that the time is passed for "bluffing" and that Bolshevism, in the role of bogey-man, has played out its little part.

He Was Wrong.

The married man concluded to try out his new theory. Addressing his spouse, he said: "My dear, I should like to go to Jones' tonight for several hours. Mr. Jones is not ill, and does not require any sitting up with. If he did, I should let his wife do it. Mr. Jones is perfectly well so far as I know, except for a certain itching for a poker game. He is notoriously a rotten poker player, and very likely would be knocked for several dollars in the course of the evening. There might be something to drink—he did not specify concerning that. He only said my presence would be appreciated. I am sure that since I have told you the truth about this affair, you will consent to my going. Am I right?" He was not.

The Object of a Tax.

Drawing up a tax bill that will subvert everybody seems to be an awful tax on the mental capacity of its author.

CHAPTER LXV.

To my disappointment Lorraine was not at home. I really felt badly. I did not want to return home, and could think of no other friend upon whom I cared to call in the mood I then was in. Suddenly I thought of Blanche Orton. While I was jealous of her, I disliked her, I received her at my house and on occasion visited her. Perhaps if I were very tactful I might get something from her.

"To Mrs. Orton's, Thomas." I would try it. Anything was better than fretting and fuming at home. "Mrs. Orton will be down in a moment," the trim little maid told me. After waiting about ten minutes I heard the rustle of silk and Blanche appeared in one of those wonderful negligees of hers. A daintily designed affair, but wonderfully becoming.

"What a lovely Oriental looking robe," I exclaimed, after she had greeted me. Unconsciously thinking what a lot it must have cost.

"Isn't it! I am horribly extravagant when it comes to this sort of thing. But I just have to have them, that's all."

"I should have them too if I could wear them. But such extreme styles are not becoming to me. Someway I look too fanciful in them."

We talked of people we knew, of the new plays, and of clothes, that never failing topic when two women are together. I tried for a long time to screw up my courage to say something about Neil, and finally she gave me an opening.

"I am so restless when he is away," I said with a little laugh, "I think I am worse than when we were first married. I roam over the house, go shopping, but can't keep still a moment." She raised her eyebrows, then:

"But how charming. You have been married—let me see, how long?"

"Oh, I know I am silly," I interrupted, not quite liking her tone, nor the lifted eyebrows.

"What do you do when he is out. You are often alone evenings, are you not?" It was an impudent question, impudently asked, but I would not quarrel with her, that had not been my object in calling.

"Not often, unless he is over here with you." It was a bold stroke. But it would at least let her know I was aware he visited her without me.

"Well, that is rather often." She drew the last remark.

"Yes, but when it is business, a woman will concede a lot, you know."

"When it is business—yes." Her tone, the repetition of my own words made me flush with anger. What was she trying to do? Was she intending to imply that Neil came to see her socially, not on business? I bit my lips to keep back a retort suited to her implication, then said instead:

"You see, Neil knows so many people, has business with them. Really, I tell him sometimes that his acquaintance is becoming too numerous. That it is fortunate we have decided upon so large a home that we will need it to entertain them all."

"Your home is charming, exquisite. Are you proposing to entertain a good deal? I judge so from your remark."

"Yes, I shall almost immediately give some small affairs, then later, some larger ones. The house is not quite ready, but will be very soon."

"How delightful! I suppose you have made up your lists. If you need any men to fill out, I know some delightful fellows who are popular, and who would be a great addition to any social affair."

"I shan't forget, but will call upon you if I need them. We were talking 'all around Robin Hood's barn, and getting nowhere,' as father used to say. So I plunged in, remarking:

"How can you endure those coarse, vulgar men Neil sees when he talks his business here with you?" It was crude, tactless, but I had become desperately anxious to find out about Neil's affairs. I had been thwarted at the office, I would not be here— if I could help it.

"What a question!" she laughed, but there was no laughter in her tone. "I endure them because I like Neil, and am willing to crucify myself to help him, which I understand is more than you are willing to do." She spoke very slowly, haltingly almost.

"Indeed it is! I can't endure to associate with such people. I think Neil is to be congratulated that he has a friend so unselfish. For of course you reap no benefits from these orgies." It was not politic but I could not help it. Then I left, boiling with indignation, while she smilingly bade me good bye, and asked me to come soon again.

Tomorrow — Barbara Welcomes Neil More Eagerly Than Ever Before.

All four trains are affected by the change, although the change of time of the evening train to Chillicothe, from 5:09 to 3:55 P. M., and the change of the west bound trains from 8:42 A. M. to 10:42 A. M. and from 7:05 to 4:45 p. m. are the greatest. The new time schedule is as follows:

Trains for the east—8:02 A. M. and 3:55 P. M.

Trains for the west—10:42 A. M. and 4:45 P. M.

Time the same daily and Sunday. East bound trains run only to Chillicothe. All trains stop at Camp Sherman.

CHARMING AFFAIR FOR MISS SUTTON

An afternoon of crocheting and sewing for the guest of honor, was spent by a group of 24 girls who were entertained by Mrs. Harry Sohn of Home avenue, Thursday afternoon, for the pleasure of Miss Florence Sutton, who is to be a bride of this month.

Daffodils and other spring flowers were used about the rooms. The girls crocheted edges for wash cloths, and hemmed comfort protectors. A two-course luncheon was served.

Miss Edna Baldner has invited some friends for Monday evening, honoring Miss Sutton.

DECLARE MONEY WAS SECURED BY MEANS OF FRAUD

Alleging that by means of deceit and fraud, he was persuaded to pay over $1083 to the defendants, Edward G. Fowler has brought suit in common pleas court to recover that sum and $250 additional for expenses, from Edith Monnett, Charles W. Monnett, Phoebe Hyde and John W. Davis.

He sets forth in his petition that Edith Monnett represented to the plaintiff that she was the owner of a farm of 167 acres near Yellow Springs, with farm equipment, and that she was an unmarried woman and needed a manager for the farm. He was to be given full management of the farm, and be permitted to make his home in the dwelling occupied by the defendant, he says. He avers that Edith Monnett represented to him that she had to discharge certain obligations with her brother before the contract could be completed and that he paid her $200 for this purpose.

Afterward, he declares, "yielding to the earnest invitation of the defendant," he went to live at the defendant's home in Yellow Springs, where he says, he for the first time, met Charles W. Monnett, the defendant's husband, and the other defendants Phoebe Hyde and John W. Davis. While there, he avers, he was constantly under the influence of the defendants, who continually held out to him the promise of congenial employment, a fine home and grandiose return for labor.

He avers that the defendants "united their efforts" and "fraudulently" induced him to turn over to them in successive payments $1083. He further alleges that the defendant John Davis persuaded him that he was under a legal obligation to pay the money. The plaintiff sets forth that he is 65 years of age, unmarried and without a home. Frank H. Dean, attorney.

COURT NEWS.

Alleging that his wife, who was a widow with six children when he married her, left home because of some trouble between her son Calvin and the plaintiff, Roy A. Emery has sued for divorce from Lydia Emery.

They were married October 2, 1912 and he says that she deserted him May 31, 1914. He charges her with wilful absence and neglect of duty. He wants the court to bar her from interest in property which he bought after she left him.

RABBI LEFKOWITZ SPEAKS AT MASONIC CLUB IN XENIA

Over 100 members of the Masonic club were given a treat following the banquet in the club rooms, Thursday night, when they were addressed by Rabbi David Lefkowitz, of Dayton.

The Rabbi is an interesting speaker and he delighted his hearers, taking for his theme "Our Duty to the Returning Soldiers." They went to fight for democracy, will they find true democracy on their return home?" said the Rabbi, in the course of his highly interesting address.

Rabbi Lefkowitz was introduced by O. P. Gilmore, Dayton business man, and John Greene, of Dayton, formerly Master of the local lodge, and William Smith, of Dayton, who is also a former resident of this county, were also guests of the club and delivered short talks, when introduced by Mr. Gilmore.

The speaking program followed a delicious banquet served by Chef Kany.

The Masonic club is a very live, thriving organization of over 140 members, and it is promising many more events. The club has a big time in mind for May and is urging Masons who do not belong to the club to join before this event.

New Rendering of Old Song.

A young lady at a New Year's party was asked to sing. She complied, and this is what her audience made out of the song: "Mid playsure sand palaces, tho' heam a roame, be it averso oh wum bull, there snow play sly comb!"

Useless Equipment.

A soldier just released from the service was the guest of friends at a dinner in celebration of his return home. The waiter placed an elaborate silver service around the table. The soldier looked at the showy array, carefully selecting one knife, one fork and one spoon. Shoving the rest of the silver from him, to the surprise of his hosts, he remarked: "Too much equipment to keep clean."—Judge.

COLBY TURNER, ARM-LESS WONDER, HAS TRAINING STABLE

Colby Turner, the armless wonder race horse trainer, who for a number of years has been training horses in this section of the country and who is one of the best trainers in the State, is again training the stable of horses belonging to J. T. Darnell, of this city. These horses are being trained at Franklin Park, Columbus.

Mr. Darnell has in training four extra good prospects and those who have seen them in the work declare that they show that they are of the best breeding and are showing much speed. Mr. Darnell states that his 2-year-old, sired by Peter the Great, 2:07 1-4, and whose dam is Zombrower, 2:04 1-4, has been a mile in 2:27.

Another one of Mr. Darnell's favorites is Jolly Bird, a 5-year-old trotter, by Binjolla, a half-sister to Binland, 2:04 1-4, which he claims can trot an eighth in 15 seconds now and which he expects will be able to make the mile oval in 2:08 to 2:10 before she leaves Columbus. Mr. Darnell classes her as an equal if not better than Ebony Todd.

The other two horses in the Darnell stable are Bob the Great, by Caduceus the Great, and Black Burns, pacer. Bob the Great is a young trotter of much promise and has been a mile several times in less than 2:20. Black Burns is a 4-year-old and made a record last season of 2:13 1-4. Mr. Darnell states that he expects a record from him this season of at least 2:10 on a half-mile track.—Wilmington News.

Minutes Count.

Most folks do not seem to know that eternity is a matter of minutes. In youth the days seem long, and the months are eternities. That is especially true when the picnic doesn't come until after the Fourth of July. It's about as bad as waiting for Christmas. But the days pass on just the same and every one adds something to eternity. As life widens its experiences from months to years and from years to decades it begins to take on new meaning. Time rasps off life's angles and years distill wisdom from its trials and sorrows. All this linked to multiplications of itself makes eternity. After all eternity is nothing more than the sum of life's hours added to all the hours that have been or are to be. They are the sum of the minutes and in them lies the secret of eternity.—Grit.

All Success Has Its Price.

Do you wish to become rich? You may become rich, that is, if you desire it in no half way, but thoroughly. A miser sacrifices all to his single passion: hoards farthings, and dies possessed of wealth. Do you wish to master any science or accomplishment? Give yourself to it, and it lies beneath your feet. Time and pains will do anything. The world is given as the prize for men in earnest; and that which is true of this world is true still of the world to come.—E. W. Robertson.

A REAL IRON TONIC

Like Peptiron May Be Just What You Need This Spring

Probably nine people out of ten have lost or are losing their grip on health in these trying months of awful epidemics, exposure to damp, changeable weather, and association with sick people in overheated homes. Depleted blood, loss of the red corpuscles, shattered nerves, loss of appetite, dull, dozy feelings in the head, irritability, all loudly call for the real tonic strength and nourishment that Peptiron will give you. It is a wonderful corrective of naemtic tendency, paleness, languor, nerve exhaustion. Peptiron restores the red corpuscles to the blood and gives a natural vigor and snap that keeps up courage, makes you cheery and helpful to your family, and friends, and contributes wonderfully to the health of all. Remember, this one thing—as vitally, positively true—Peptiron is a real iron tonic. adv

A shooting fish in the East Indies has a hollow cylindrical beak. When it sees a fly on plants that grow in shallow streams it ejects a single drop of water, which knocks the fly into the tide.

Origin of Market Gardener.

The term market gardener was originally "marsh gardener," according to John Evelyn's English translation, 1693 of De La Quintinye's "Complait Gardener," which was dedicated by the publishers, Matthew Gillyflower and James Partridge, to Lord Capell of Tewksbury.

DUTCH NAVY BUSY SWEEPING SEA CLEAR OF FLOATING MINES STREWN BY GERMANS

Dutch mine scatterer "Meduca" hauling in mine.

The North sea fairly swarmed with floating mines scattered by the Germans when the armistice was signed. These mines of course are a menace to ships and the allied and neutral nations have been at work clearing them from the ocean lanes. The photo shows one of the Dutch navy vessels, known as a mine scatterer, sweeping the North sea for mines.

SLOWLY GREENE CO. SOLDIERS RETURN FROM SERVICE IN THE ARMY

A few short months ago the clarion call to arms sounded the length and breadth of this great country.

Reaching into the intricate corners of the republic, it reverberated through hill and valley, sounding the battle cry of Mars, awakening strong men from their lethargy of prosperity, and the war time spirit of the ancients was born again in the modern man.

A few days afterward, the long arm of the draft reached forth while there were yet men crowding into the recruiting offices. It singled out this big business man in a tall sky scraper, and in the same breath led the farmer lad from his plow and put the two side by side in an army camp. It reached into the heart of the great cities, taking the business and professional men, the clerks, the factory hands, the shop keepers, the unemployed. In like manner it made itself known in the little cross-roads hamlets and took the small town boys, who hung around the railroad station when the evening train came in. It recognized neither wealth, poverty, caste, power, fame, distinction, position, prominence or lack of it. It took the Easterner with his dialect, the Southerner with his drawl, the Westerner with his emphasis, the Northerner with his snappiness.

Just a short time afterward these lads woke up one morning in camp to find themselves wearing Uncle Sam's uniform and carrying a rifle. In a comparatively short time afterward some of them were playing hide and seek with corpulent Fritzies on the western battle front. The absolute democracy of the whole thing is what builded an army out of rough material that was absolutely unconquerable.

Xenia and Greene county did their share in this sacrifice of youth and liberty. It was sons, brothers, husbands, who responded to the great call and went out of the town to the army that made folks at home realize the seriousness of the conflict overseas. In the meanwhile there were days in the old home town that seemed unbearable. There was a longing in everyone's eyes—there was truly something missing. And then—

Well, they are coming back now,—these boys of ours. Day by day they drift in hardly making their presence known, quiet and modest as they are, until they have quite settled back into civilian life. From the way they have been coming back home since the signing of the armistice, it would seem that all would now be back, but a review of those who have gone away proves that there are many yet, either in the camps in this country, or still in France or in Germany with the Army of Occupation. Of the number there are men wearing almost every divisional insignia in the category.

There were a number of early enlistments from loyal old Greene county when the war was first declared. Of a number of lads who enlisted in the aviation corps and went to Texas, who are now in France, are Charles Poland, Albert Hawk, Eddie Thomas and Roy Ireland. William Finley and William Rickels of the aviation corps enlisted about the same time, but are now home after being overseas many months. Joseph Beyke, who enlisted about that time, is still at Kelly Field, Texas, in the aviation corps, has been many months in France, and does not yet know when he will return.

Co. I men of the old Third Ohio, now the 148th Infantry, will be home soon, as will local men in the 134th and 133th Field Artillery units and the 112th Ammunition Train. Elbert L. Babb, who is overseas with a supply train, has no definite information of when he will come home, although the units are fast leaving France.

Raymond Horen of this city and James Finley of Spring Valley, who are connected with a machine gun outfit, are in the Army of Occupation, being sent there after training at Camp Beauregard. Martin Wolf, who enlisted in the quartermaster's corps, at Fort Thomas, went to Camp Joseph E. Johnson in Florida and thence overseas, where he now is.

Lieutenant George F. Stutsman, who was scheduled to go in the first five per cent, was called to Officers' Training School at that time and is now in Honolulu in the cavalry.

David Bradfute, who was formerly in the 33rd division, and transferred from that to the 319th F. S. B., has been chosen for the American school detachment and will take university work at Basaueon, France. He is destined to spend several months in France yet. Capt. C. L. Darlington, who gave up his law practice for the army, is still overseas with an occupational outfit.

It would indeed be difficult in a brief summary of Greene county's part in the World War to trace each of the large number of soldiers from this county who responded to the call to arms.

There is a general feeling now that the majority of the boys have arrived home, but in fact, there are still many wearing the khaki, a major portion of them overseas with some of the various expeditionary outfits.

In fact, it has been deduced that it will be many months before all of the young men who went into the great conflict and have survived, will be back in their homes here.

That the war is over and peace restored is enough of a joyful shock to humanity at present, and one that America, as a whole, is grateful for.

Orange Institution.

An Orangeman is a member of the Irish society called the Loyal Orange Institution. After the battle of Boyne in 1690, the Irish Catholics, who, on account of their Jacobite leanings, were oppressed by the English, began to form many semi-revolutionary societies. In opposition the Irish Protestants formed the Orangemen organization, the object of which was to oppose Roman Catholicism and to maintain the union of England and Ireland and the Protestant succession to the throne. Though it derived its name from William III (of Orange), who drove out the Catholic James II, it was first definitely established in Ulster, 1795. It extended rapidly and even had some lodges in England and Canada. Parliament was compelled to check the turbulence of the organization on several occasions and from 1813 to 1823 it was suspended in Ireland. July 12, the anniversary of the battle of Boyne, is Orange day.

DISCOURAGED

You have tried everything. It's the same old story. I hear it everyday. Your courage is gone, your faith is gone. The end would be gladly welcomed, but even that won't come. What would you give to be a well man—a well woman? What wouldn't you give? Worse cases, perhaps than yours, are yielding as if by magic to its subtle power. Why not your case? I will leave it to your intelligence and good judgment. Slaves to mock or false modesty, you deserve to suffer. 95 per cent of the supposed incurable cases could be relieved physically and mentally. If they would only confess it to a friend, family, or better, a skilled physician. Don't argue I've tried electricity with no results—you may have no idea what an up-to-date electrically equipped institution really is.

IF I ONLY KNEW JUST WHAT AILS ME.

How often have you made this remark? Yet you continue to suffer, hesitating to seek aid because you consider that medical attention would be too expensive, or, perhaps, are you dissatisfied with past treatment.

Remember, all the wishing, hoping and praying never cured any real physical ailment. Then, why continue to grope in the dark, suffering pain, discomfort and dissatisfaction?

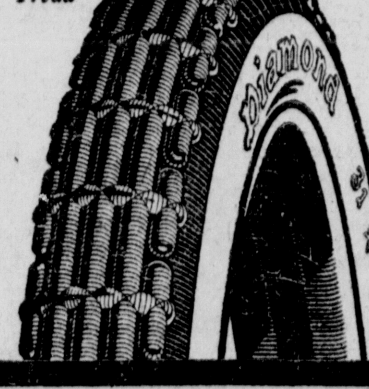

An X-ray examination will cost you but one dollar and is considered by the medical profession as one of the greatest aids to a correct diagnosis. If your case is not incurable you can be treated in one of the most completely equipped offices in the Middle West. 25 years' experience.

UNSUPPORTED

I would that a snow-clad soldier could enter the Congress Hall, stride to the desk of the Speaker, and facing them one and all, speak with the lips of the frozen, stare with the eyes of the dead, and tell them a story of Russia—Russia that runs with red.

Yes, tell them the tale of the hand left to their fate alone—Tell of the furious fighting, in cold that bit to the bone; Fling in the startled faces that never had steel nor snow. Struck to their hearts like knowing America left them so!

Say to them: "I am a message—one of the men you have lost! 'Haste, or the others will follow, bringing full count of the cost, 'Stamping with frozen footsteps into this House of the Law, 'To point with accusing fingers, to tell of the things they saw."

Strong with the will of the nation, dauntless the surging line Battled from Chateau-Thierry, swept to the German Rhine. Grant to our soldiers in Russia only the soldiers' due—Back them or else withdraw them—drop it or see it through!

O. C. A. CHILD.

MOTORAIDS

If you are a new driver take your time during the first month. Keep cool and have a reason for everything you do. About all think, do not forget that, think and you will get along all right. Know what each pedal is for, know what each button will do, and be sure about it and do not lose your head.

Early morning is the best time to learn the first stages of driving. Go slowly and keep to the right. Get in the habit of watching for vehicles, both on the street on which you are driving and on cross streets. After a short period, after you feel satisfied you have mastered the elementary things, drive later in the day when traffic is heavier. But be careful. This will accustom you to the crowds. During the learning period drive slowly. Do not speed. Much of the beginner's trouble comes from driving too fast.

Nine times in ten when a car acts cranky it is the lubrication. When the bearings get dry, they start to heat up and then there is the dickens to pay. If it is the motor, the water pump in the cooling system gets hot and the trouble may soon be discovered. But if it is in the axles or transmission it may not be discovered until the damage is done and a bearing or two has to be replaced.

Why Beefsteak Is High

This chart was copied from Bulletin No. 226, U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. It is the latest that has been issued. 100=1916 price.

Remember when beefsteak was 20c a pound?

Now it's 40 and 50 cents a pound.

Why?

This chart shows that the price packers have had to pay for cattle has gone up with the price received for beef.

In fact, it shows that the "spread" between cattle and beef prices has been gradually reduced during the past 30 years—owing to competition among packers, their increased efficiency, bigger volume, and elimination of waste.

The packer's profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound of meat has helped to narrow this "spread."

Increased farm-production costs have made higher cattle prices necessary.

BELGIANS PROUD OF CITIES

In Their Centers of Industry They See Embodied the Glorious History of the Past.

No man shall say we love our land less than a Frenchman loves France, less than a Belgian loves his native land. We have our holy cities, Winchester and Canterbury, and a hundred more whose old names are dear to speak. Yet I believe, writes "Londoner" in the London Evening News, that the Belgian has a patriotism of the city, of the town, which we never had.

The story of that love for the city is all the history of Belgium. The history of the freedom and the wealth and the ancient arts of Belgium is in the history of Antwerp and Bruges, of Brussels and Ghent, and Louvain and Ypres. It begins with the building of the town wall, with the market that grows up behind the shelter of walls and armed gates, with the raising of the tall belfry, the town's pride, and the hanging of the bells.

If you were a tourist who could see the glory of old Flanders and Brabant, you would look not at the cathedral or the church, although Belgium has many noble old churches, but at the town hall and the belfry. The like of them is not in any other country.

No Drawback.

The best story accredited to Sir Aston Webb, president of the British Royal Academy, concerns a politician. "I wonder what he'll do now?" said one. "What's the matter with him?" "He's lost his reason," replied the other. "Oh, that won't matter, so long as he retains his voice!" was the retort.

William Leahey, son of Mrs. Michael Leahey, has received his discharge from the army at Camp Sherman, and is home, the first of the five Leahey brothers serving their country to be released from duty. William was a member of Company C, 54th Regular Infantry. He saw service in Alsace-Lorraine, in the Argonne and at St. Mihiel. In the last engagement he was gassed, November 6, five days before the armistice was signed. Phosgene was the gas which overcame him, and he has not yet completely recovered from its effects.

He was in six different hospitals between the time he was carried back from the front and his discharge.

1/3 Less Coal— 1/2 More Heat

You can save from a third to a half of your fuel and have a much warmer home than ever before if you will install a CALORIC.

The CALORIC is the remarkable furnace that heats without pipes, through only one register. It circulates heat by Nature's own method, forcing warm air up into the entire house and drawing cool air down into the furnace to be reheated and purified.

The CALORIC heats practically all types of homes, bungalow or three-story house, up to eighteen rooms. It keeps kitchens and back bedrooms just as comfortable and warm as the rest of the house. Also heats churches, factories, stores and other business buildings. More than 60,000 already installed.

The CALORIC can be installed in new or old houses—no cutting of walls for pipes and no interference with present system of heating. It burns coal, coke, gas, wood or lignite, and saves from one-third to one-half the fuel.

Proving His Valor

By OTILLIA FRANCES PFEIFFER

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

When Ernest Druse came back from the war, bearing the scars of several wounds, a record for exceptional bravery and two honor decorations, the girls of Rockton went fairly wild over him. He was hero, idol, and petted and fêted favorite, while stay-at-homes became back numbers, for the time at least.

"He makes me tired!" observed Val Newcomb to a coterie of friends.

"He's a monopolizer so far as the company and attentions of the ladies are concerned; that is sure," remarked one of the group.

"Valor, courage and all that sort of stuff! You'd think he had won the war all by himself!" jeered Val. "His last captivity is Esther Wilde. Seems to think all he has to do is to look at a girl and she is his own special property."

"Um! Sour grapes, eh?" was suggested, which Val took with manifest ill-nature and walked away muttering to himself.

"I've got to devise some kind of a move to make myself solid with the girls," he soliloquized, sourly. "It was fair sailing with Esther until that khaki wonder put in an appearance. I don't mind the general lot, but Esther is the pick of them all, has money, beauty and social position, and I'm not going to give up my hopes and dreams so easily. I'm going to set my thinking machinery at work and see if I can't devise some scheme to get the upper hand of this audacious military marvel."

It was two days later when Val visited a drinking place in the slum portion of the town, and was engaged in an earnest, low-toned conversation with a rough appearing denizen of the place for some time.

"Think you can carry out the program?" was his final interrogation of him of low brows and furtive, evil eyes.

"Trust me for staging the act according to rule," was the confident reply.

"All right. Don't disappoint me. Tuesday night from eleven to twelve."

Now Val had invited Esther to a local entertainment for Tuesday evening and had prevailed upon her to accompany him.

At the close of the entertainment they sauntered homeward slowly. It was an exquisitely perfect June night and Val kept his eye out closely, scanning tree and bush for the lurking he expected to help him "stage a real act of valor."

He was simply courteous to Esther and did not seek to press his attentions, for which Esther was truly grateful, but all the time he was congratulating himself over the inevitable homage and admiration that would be due him when the act was consummated.

There was a precious heirloom in the Wilde family, with which all Rockton was familiar. It was a diamond sunburst, which Esther always wore on important occasions. Val made sure that it was in place upon this particular evening. Its value was very considerable and he knew that its loss would be deeply mourned by the fair girl he hoped to make his bride.

"Oh, dear!" suddenly exclaimed Esther, shrinking back in terror. A man, wearing a half-mask over his face, had sprung from behind a tree. In a twinkling he had despoiled Esther of the jeweled ornament.

"Stop, you ruffian!" shouted Val, disengaging Esther's arm, leaping upon the audacious robber and flinging him to the ground.

"Go easy, mister!" snarled the latter, and, leveling a revolver, he struggled to his feet.

"Be careful!" quavered Esther. "He is going to shoot."

The footpad did shoot. Two sharp reports rang out. The highwayman turned and fled.

"I will restore your property if I have to follow that miscreant to the ends of the earth!" vaunted Val.

"Don't risk your life—" began Esther, but with an injunction to hurry home to safety Val dashed in hot pursuit of the thief, and both were lost to sight.

Esther did not enter the house when she reached it, but stood at the garden gate, peering anxiously down the street. She was quite solicitous as to the welfare of her courageous champion, although not one whit perturbed at the loss of the ornament. Then she expressed a sigh of relief. At the end of half an hour Val came into view. His attire was all awry, his collar torn out of place.

"A deadly struggle and a desperate villain!" announced Val. "He escaped me, but not until I had wrested from him your precious property," and Val extended the sunburst.

"Precious!" repeated Esther, with a slight smile. "Oh, Mr. Newcomb! Why did you so foolishly risk injury for a mere trifle? This is only a substitute paste imitation which I have been wearing while the real ornament is being reset."

Val Newcomb wilted. All the same he felt he must have demonstrated a bravery Esther could not fail to admire. She gave him full measure of praise until his bribed emissary, while under the influence of liquor, let out the details of the secret compact.

Then Val Newcomb quietly left town, on the engagement of Esther and Ernest Druse, that same day.

NEW HARBOR STRIKE DELAYED 48 HOURS

New York, April 17.—The latest New York harbor strike, if it is called, will not start until Saturday.

It was scheduled to begin at 6:00 A. M., today, but James L. Hughes, a department of labor conciliator, secured a delay of 48 hours to give the government a chance to intervene. Hughes intimated that Secretary of Labor Wilson and other high officials would come here to confer with the men and companies.

The New York harbor traffic at present is impeded by a strike which has been in progress for weeks, but various groups have gone back to work from time to time and the strike is not general. The new walk-out is threatened because union boatmen are asked to tow barges of non-union firms.

Leaders of union men working for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, which controls Brooklyn street cars, elevated roads and subways, will meet tonight to decide whether they will strike for a 65 per cent wage increase.

The Joy of Motherhood Told

Women Tell How They Made Event One of Great Happiness.

In every part of the land there are women who tell how, through the application of Mother's Friend, they entirely avoided the suffering usually incident to motherhood. They relate in no uncertain terms how from its use the days were made bright and cheerful and the nights calm and restful, how the crisis was passed without the usual suffering experienced when nature is unaided, and how they preserved their health and strength to devote it to the rearing of their children and to the things life holds for them.

Mother's Friend is a most penetrating remedy, prepared especially for expectant mothers from a formula of a noted physician. Strain upon the ligaments is avoided, and instead of a period of discomfort and constant dread it is a season of calm repose. The hours of the crisis are less, and Mother's Friend enables the mother to retain her natural grace, and her skin is not cracked and does not become hard or disfigured.

Write to the Bradfield Regulator Company, Dept. L, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their Motherhood Book, and obtain a bottle of Mother's Friend from the druggist today.

Frail, Sickly Children Improve Rapidly on Vinol

The reason we so strongly recommend Vinol for frail, sickly children is because it is a non-secret remedy which contains Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Iron and Manganese Peptonates and Glycophosphates—but no oil—the very elements needed to build them up. It is delicious to the taste, and children love it.

These Two Mothers Have Proved This.

Bainbridge, N.Y.

"My little daughter, 13 years old, overworked and was run-down, tired all the time, nervous, had headaches, couldn't eat and had to stay out of school. Vinol has built her up. She has a good appetite, no more headaches and has returned to school again."—Mrs. Lester Andrews.

Williamson, W. Va.

"My little boy was weak, puny, and tired all the time, did not want to do anything. Vinol was recommended and it built up his strength and made him healthy. Now he romps and plays like other children. We certainly believe in Vinol for children."—Harley Clay.

IDEAL heat renews old homes

Remodeling of buildings should begin in the basement. Next time you see alterations being made, note what material is saved—or thrown out! You will find the tin and sheet iron heating devices go to the dump heap—but you never see IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators thrown out that way. They make a building always new—and never wear out or lose efficiency. When IDEAL heated buildings are remodeled, extra sections and more radiators are added to furnish the additional heat needed—the building stays in the same desirable class for rental or sale. IDEAL Heating Outfits are, therefore, a long-lasting investment—not an expense!

AMERICAN & IDEAL RADIATORS & BOILERS

These outfits guarantee you a lifetime of heating comfort and fuel economy!

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators change any house into a home. Comfort at a turn of the valve.

IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators enable you to get not only the greatest possible volume of heat and therefore the utmost value from your coal, but these outfits guarantee perfect distribution and control of that heat! No "cold side" to the house. No drafty floors!

The greatest money saver in a building is IDEAL heating

If you have a building to rent or to sell, you'll find it a splendid talking basis to say: "It's heated with IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators." It means that the tenant will be glad to pay 15% more rent because of the comfort, health protection, convenience, cleanliness, and fuel economy he will experience, or in selling you get back the full price paid for the outfit, which does not rust out or wear out.

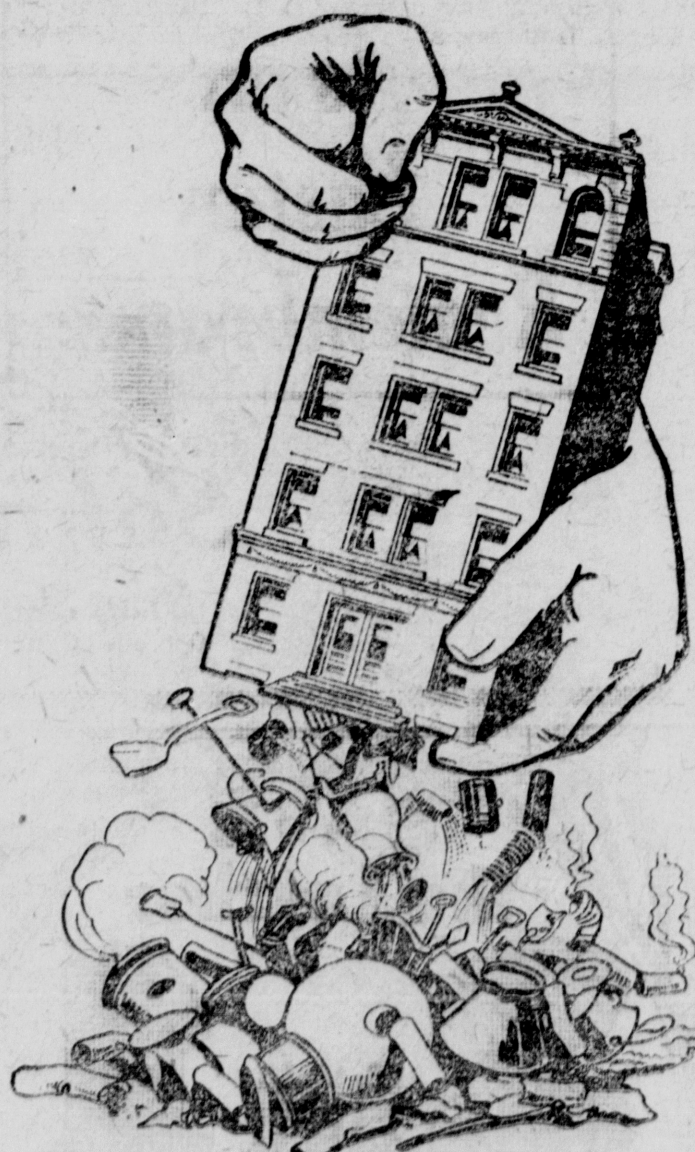

Don't go through another Winter without remodeling your home, store, flats, shop, school, or church to the extent of enjoying the comfort and fuel saving of IDEAL-AMERICAN heating! Put quickly in old or new buildings. Ask for free book "Ideal Heating." Let us serve you now.

Built-in, genuine Vacuum Cleaner—iron suction pipe runs to each floor.

We also make the ARCO WAND Vacuum Cleaner connected by iron suction pipe to various floors of houses, flats, schools, churches, hotels, etc. Through a light-weight hose ALL the dirt, cobwebs, lint, threads, moths, etc., are drawn with lightning rapidity down the iron piping into big, sealed dust-bucket in cellar. No dragging around a clumsy, inefficient portable cleaner—instead, you have a practical outfit that is part of the building—like radiator heating. Ask for catalog—it does not obligate you to buy.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

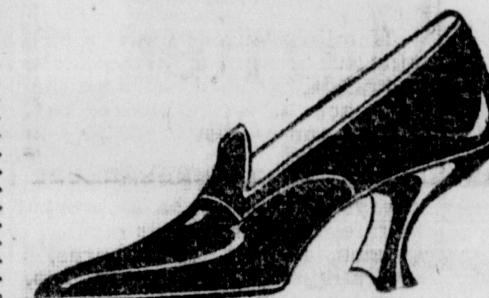

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray. Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

What the FORDSON Service Will Do For You

There are two big factors to consider when you are buying a tractor—both equally important—the tractor itself and the service rendered.

A tractor which is standing idle because the service is far away or because the dealer hasn't the proper parts is a poor investment, no matter how well the tractor itself may be made.

Fordson Tractors are selling by the thousands every month and are giving universal satisfaction all over the world because of this.

The tractor itself is made as durable, dependable, efficient and economical as the best engineering skill, the finest materials and workmanship can make it.

And add to this, wherever a Fordson Tractor is sold, you will find parts and service as quickly and easily available as the kerosene you put into the tank.

Our service means this to you. First, that we will thoroughly instruct you how to get the most out of your tractor—how to operate it properly so as to avoid trouble—how to make all minor repairs and adjustments so that only on rare occasions will you have to call for help.

But when you do require help for repair work or parts you will find us ready at a moment's notice.

Our stock of parts is complete, our mechanics are experts.

Fordson service is delivered to your farm.

To own a Fordson means that you own a durable, dependable, economical tractor that will serve you every working day in the year.

The Fordson Company make it durable and dependable.

We keep it so.

April 9th at the Van Tress farm at Waynesville, Ohio, there were 8 makes of tractors in the field with Judges to decide and the FORDSON TRACTOR came out the winner, speaks pretty well for it, don't it?

CAPT. WILSON GALLOWAY DESCRIBES TRIP THROUGH FRENCH BATTLE FIELDS

A trip through the shattered city of Rheims, over the shell scarred battlefields that surround it, and from there through sunny southern France, untouched by the hideousness of war, along the blue Mediterranean, over the French Alps, in regions historic, and famed in song and story is beautifully described by Captain Wilson Galloway, in a series of letters to Mrs. Galloway, in this city. The following extracts are taken from the letters: Writing from Lyons February 17, he describes a visit to Rheims. He says:

"We got up at 5:30, and caught an early train to Rheims, passing through Chateau Thierry to Eper-bay, then north. At Rheims we ate in a Red Cross canteen that was the only place kept open during the entire four years, and is still the only place where the civilians are allowed to eat, or the only place any one else can find a meal.

Rheims is in an awful state of ruin and desolation, seeming far worse to me than Verdun if that is possible. At the beginning of the war it had 110,000 population. Now only 14,000 stand unhit by bombs. The beautiful city hall is a shell, the theatre ruined and burnt and the whole place desolate. Unlike Verdun, which is teaming with life and full of soldiers coming and going, Rheims is still as a city of the dead. Traffic of armies doesn't come and go there, and one can feel the depression. It was raining and murky, the heavy snow was slushy, and the only folks we saw were a few refugees passing through.

We went five miles out of the city to the Hindenburg line, and visited the French and German trenches, went down into great deep dug outs, passed over no man's land full of shell holes, unexploded shells, land greades and souvenirs of every sort. The barbed wire is still there, gas bells still in place, cartridge boxes open, and only half their contents used, lay about. Several iron beds were in one dugout, and we found an unburied dead German in the high grass, hooked by a barbed wire entanglement.

The cathedral at Rheims is wonderful. Absolutely wonderful. We couldn't get in because the thawing was freeing some of the debris above, and one was likely to get hit on the head with a piece of inelastic rock. But we saw inside from the fence without, and what we saw was marvelous. Even the outside stood there before us as a monument to the martyred city and her defenders. It is an enormous edifice, high, long, wide, yet as well proportioned and unheavy as a small house would be with infinite detail of ornamentation, that all fits in completely with the rest of the building. I wish I could describe it but I can't. But I'll never forget how it looked in the misting rain and melting snow, broken, shell torn, scarred, its windows shattered, roof full of holes or gone entirely in places, its arches here and there minus a member where a stone has fallen, yet still, as a whole, it is good and strong and lovely.

All today have been talking French to the people in our compartment and are tired. We had supper, the best one I ever ate in France, in a very fine cafe here tonight. It must have held 200 people at once in an enormous room fully 125 feet square, minus a single column, or arch to support the ceiling. We were the only Americans, so thoroughly enjoyed ourselves.

February 22—Here I am in Nice, in sunny southern France, along the Mediterranean. The sea is as blue as amethyst, and it is no wonder the old Romans and Greeks raved over it and its beauty.

We left Grenoble Wednesday morning, and started through the Alps to Digne. The ride was up, and up and up, round hill after hill and back tracking, and passing round and across valleys, and through tunnels, over high trestles, etc. The scenery was most gorgeous, until we finally arrived at the snow line, and suddenly were in the midst of the beautiful snow clad peaks everywhere, the sun shining down on them, and making them glisten and shimmer. Away below were little valleys and tiny, picturesque villages, here and there streams ran down the mountains, and fell plunging into the prettiest falls imaginable. Our engines pulled us across the divide at 3,760 feet, and then we weren't half way up. We changed cars and ate dinner at Veynes, a queer mountain village nestling right in the peaks. Again we changed at St. Auban for Digne, where we staid all night, in an old wooden hotel that was at least 200 years old, but got a splendid meal there.

Next morning we got up at four and caught a train at 5 for Annat. This ride was the most wonderful I ever took. After daylight came we entered the snow line again, but the mountains were more rugged and precipitous, and it really looked like fairy land with the rocks, waterfalls, mountain torrents, pine trees all in white, and the beautiful white crests crowning it all. On top of all this, we got to ride in the engine cab, so we could see the magnificent spectacle unfold around us at every turn. I'll never forget the ride if I live to be a thousand. Mile after mile of tunnel and high stone bridge, gorges and rivers lay spread out as far as we could see, backed by the Alps themselves in eternal snow.

We arrived at the village of Annat at 8:30, and were the only Americans there or who had been there for a long time. This town is very quaint. It is right at the snow line, and sets in a little valley away up in the air. It has been a village since prehistoric times, and was fortified by the Romans in the first century. Some of the houses date back to B. C. It looked almost like a picture of Palestine in this old hilly part with its arched doorways cut in solid stone. We had dinner at a nice little modern tourist hotel, and saw the terraces where the people farm. Some were no larger than 12 by 15 feet, and all were marvelously constructed on wall after wall of stone. Great rocks and boulders jut out from the hillsides, and in old times and today houses are in their crevices or on top of them. That afternoon we took the train again and came down the little river to Nice, through scenery that kept us saying, "Oh, look there."

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea. He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescent and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.
